SHORT AND GOOD.

READING AND THOUGHT.

President Hoover's Christmas day message had all the necessary good qualities. It was short, only 37 words. It wasted none of the few words on regrets or wallings about conditions.

Mr. Hoover uttered the formal hope for a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year, and will do all that he can to make the latter real. There is hard work ahead for everybody, and wishing on Christmas would not make it easier.

In northern Alberta, engineers of the Canadian government have discovered the oldest preserved trees in the world. Their branches were waving over strange animals, including uncouth half-developed men, 15,000,000 years ago, when our continent was connected with Asia. That makes our giant redwood trees, 2,000 years old when Christ was born, seem very young.

Hermetically sealed in bitumen sands, safe from the destroying air, the wood was perfectly preserved, with some of its leaves, and the insects that were attacking both, when all were buried together.

Dr. Bailey of Harvard, proves that one of the trees is a Japanese variety.

Those old trees, growing on a huge continent that included North American and Japan 15,000,000 years ago, make our few days and little troubles seem less important.

There is trouble on Henry Ford's gigantic rubber plantations in Brazil, where Ford agents are developing 6,000,000 acres of tropical land. It is interesting to think how many pythons, jaguars and monkeys will be disturbed by tractors and planes that are going day and night, working under floodlights in the cooler night hours.

Included among other inhabitants of some human beings that resent being disturbed, and the Brazilian government sends police by airplane to make them realize that Ford, bringing "American living conditions and wages," should be made welcome.

Planting trees always means looking ahead, usually to the next generation. But with rubber it is not so slow. The trees that Ford has already planted in Brazil will yield, 10 years hence, 6,000,000,000 pounds of rubber a year.

Rubber was Brazil's monopoly until a few years ago. Then Brazil began growing coffee, taking the world trade from Java, and a clever individual in England successfully moved the rubber growing to Joppa, where it was then unknown. Now Ford promises to bring the world's rubber production back to the South American continent.

According to Bacon, "Reading maketh a full man." British statistics prove that hard times create more reading. Books of all kinds, including worthwhile books on science, biology, astronomy, technology, etc., have increased in number of publications and in total sales.

When life is easy, the average man does little thinking. In trouble, he thinks hard, and for thinking he

CHRISTMAS EVE TRAGEDY TAKES COUPLE'S LIVES

Husband Shoots Wife And Kills Self In Wells-ville Home

FAILS TO EFFECT RECONCILIATION

Funeral Services for Mrs. Pearl Whalen To Be Held Saturday

(By Brush-Moore Leased Wire)
WELLSVILLE, Dec. 26.—Funeral services will be held here Saturday at 2 p. m. for Mrs. Pearl Whalen, 43, who was shot to death Christmas eve by her estranged husband, John Whalen, 50, Wheeling, W. Va., restaurant owner, who then killed himself.

The double shooting occurred in the home of Mrs. Whalen's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Moore. The tragedy, it is said, was prompted by Whalen's inability to effect a reconciliation with his wife from whom he had been separated for three weeks.

Using an automatic, Whalen, who followed his wife here, fired seven shots, six of which took effect, as the woman attempted to flee up a stairway, police said.

As his wife's body lay at his feet, Whalen fired a shot in his chest and then into his head.

He was taken to the East Liverpool hospital where he died three hours later.

Whalen's body was taken Thursday to Wheeling.

Both had previously been married. Mrs. Whalen leaves a son and Whalen is survived by two sons and two daughters, both by former marriages.

NORRIS ASKED TO BOLT PARTY

Senator Tendered Leadership Of New Political Group

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—Senator George W. Norris had an invitation today from John Dewey, chairman of the League for Independent Political action, to bolt the Republicans and lead a third political party.

In a letter to the senator from Nebraska, Dewey, formerly professor of philosophy at Columbia university, told him he was not a true Republican as charged by Robert H. Lucas, executive director of the league and that the time was ripe for his leadership of a new political group.

"In light of your recent experience with leaders of the Republican party," Dr. Dewey wrote, "I urge that you sever forever your connections with that political machine and form with those of us in the league and other groups a new party in which you can give your full allegiance."

James Lamar Held
James Lamar, New Garden street, is being held in city jail on a charge of cutting with intent to kill, being reported by police to have attacked Hann with a razor while the latter was in bed at 1-40 a. m. today. Mrs. Lone Hann and M. C. Harris are being held by authorities as material witnesses.

This ruling was given to officials of the state bureau of inspection of public officers.

The Fairmount Children's home is a district home, supported by Stark and Columbiana counties.

AVIATION GROWS; 'LINDY' TELLS OF RAPID PROGRESS

Flying Colonel Talks Of Then And Now In Air History

PREDICTS SPEED JUMP IN FUTURE

Has Not Completed Plans For Tour Of South America

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—Aviation has come a long way since a young fellow from Missouri took off from Roosevelt field four years ago next May and flew to Paris. Col. Charles A. Lindbergh believes.

The world's best known flier talked today of aviation as it was five years ago and as it is now; of low wings and high wings; of engines and speed and radio-topics that are the very breath of life to him.

Cites Flying's Progress

"We have had more progress in the development of aircraft in the last five years than could have been foreseen at that time."

"In 1925, a good cruising speed was 90 miles an hour. Today we have planes of the same class with cruising speeds as high as 140 miles an hour. The air mail De-Havillands we used in 1925 had a carrying capacity of about 400 pounds. Planes today of the same horsepower cruise at least 20 miles an hour faster and carry from three to four times that load.

"The same with the business or sport plane, flown by the non-professional pilot. It is more stable. It is easier to operate, and it is much simpler to learn how to fly one. The cost of operation of a privately owned plane today is only a fraction of the cost of a few years back.

Just Like An Auto
"The small, private plane of 85 to 100 miles an hour cruising speed can be operated today at practically the same cost as a medium-priced automobile.

The cruising speed of several well-known transport planes has been increased several miles an hour during the past year. Col. Lindbergh remarked, and he expects to see it stepped up at least 10 miles an hour more in 1931. The best large transport planes today have a cruising speed of 105 to 115 miles an hour and a top of 130 to 145.

The increase in air transport lines has been phenomenal, the colonel believes. Three years ago there were only few short passenger airlines in the United States. Today they link every important city in a national network. Two

SENATOR URGES FIVE-DAY WEEK

Democratic Leader Suggests Methods Of Restoring Labor Equilibrium

(By Associated Press)
LITTLE ROCK, ARK., Dec. 26.—Industries of the United States, says Senator Joe T. Robinson, of Arkansas, may find it necessary to adopt a five-day week to restore the equilibrium between the labor supply and the demand for labor.

The Democratic senate leader, in a statement made upon his return home for the holiday recess of congress, observed that "unemployment seems to be increasing rather than diminishing" and the substitution of machinery for hand labor is revolutionizing working conditions and throwing millions out of employment.

He said "manifestly, it is difficult" for the five day week to be brought about during an economic crisis like the present and that it, like the proposed establishment of reserves for unemployment, is of permanent rather than temporary character.

"Many circumstances," said the senator, "indicate that mere temporary measures will be insufficient. Although of course, they first must be considered."

He added that the $116,000,000 appropriated by congress for speeding up public works "appears inadequate."

"There are some signs of general business improvement, but the recovery cannot be quickly made," Robinson said, "meantime every agency, both public and private, must cooperate wholeheartedly to minimize the distress."

GARNER URGING VETS' PAYMENT

Texasan Champions Legislation For Turning Cash Loose

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—Representative Garner of Texas, Democratic house leader, today was championing legislation for payment to veterans of the present value of their compensation certificates.

He advocated a plan giving the veteran option to turn in his certificate now and receive the original settlement value plus four per cent interest, or to hold it to maturity.

It would cost about a billion dollars, Garner contended, which he said the treasury could obtain by borrowing at between one and three fourths and one and seven eighths per cent.

"I doubt," he said "if the treasury ever again will be able to secure money at such a low rate for the discharge of this obligation."

The Texasan advanced his belief that not more than 60 per cent of the veterans would present their certificates at this time, but he argued the release of the sum represented by this proportion would contribute materially to restore "the economic balance."

ICY HIGHWAYS, CRASHES BOOST FATALITY TOLL

More Than 80 Deaths Recorded In Middle West

FIVE ARE KILLED IN GUN BATTLES

Children Fatally Burned; Two Die As Bridge Collapses

(By Associated Press)
Two hundred or more deaths marred Christmas joy yesterday as accidents took a heavy toll from coast to coast.

Fires, drownings, hunting tragedies and poisonous liquor cost lives, but automobiles, running in many sections on slippery roads, were the greatest agent of destruction, causing more than two thirds of the deaths.

80 Die In Middle West
In the middle west about 80 of the fatalities were recorded. Flames trapped lodgers in a rooming house at Whiting, Ind., and seven men died. Gun fights claimed five lives in the south. One victim was a woman.

Poison liquor claimed between five and ten lives in New York. In California three were believed to have drowned when a launch capsized. In Missouri two died when a bridge collapsed. Two children were fatally burned in Montgomery, Pa., when their father poured gasoline on the kitchen fire. A man froze to death in Indiana and another in Pennsylvania.

Hundreds were injured in accidents.

Ohio Fatalities
Death lurked among the Christmas callers in Ohio and 15 persons were killed in automobile collisions. Six of the fatalities occurred in Cleveland. Nearly a score more were injured, some of them seriously, in accidents over the state.

The Dead
Irene Sapwa, 6, Cleveland, struck while crossing a street.

Reads Editorial

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Dec. 26.—In reading my Christmas good wishes and the morning papers, found a long editorial seriously comparing our Christmas Day here to the one held in Bethlehem, Judea.

In fact it kinder gives us the best of it in the way of weather and natural resources over Christ's original birthplace, and it is rather insinuated in case our Saviour is to be born again, the Chamber of Commerce should get busy now and book the event amid ideal surroundings.

Bethlehem may have had us beat on milk and honey, but I bet we are more cold cream here than they did, and we got some awful good orange marmalade, and it would be cheap.

DIRECT PUNISHMENT

Six youthful residents of North Branch, Mich., charged with theft were given a sound horsewhipping this week under order of their parents. When the judge heard of the punishment, administered shortly before court convened, he placed the lads on probation until next June, declaring he approved the extra-legal means of bringing them to their senses.

There was a time when the circumstance of young men under 20 years of age being horsewhipped by parental order would not have attracted so much interest. Rode has not always been spared with the meticulous caution characteristic of many American parents of the prevailing generation. Indeed, there once was a time when parents guarded their prerogatives of rearing children in the way they should go as zealously as certain advocates of states' rights are coming to guard their authority. The law of the group was there to use in case everything else failed, but sole dependence was not placed upon it; at least, there were fewer parents who left the state the responsibility of rearing their offspring.

It is tempting to speculate what still might be accomplished with the whip and the rod were they to be administered a bit more freely today by parents inclined to be jealous of their family responsibilities. Unfortunately, however, those who have the most frequent occasions to use them usually seem to have the least capacity to use them intelligently.

POLITICAL TRADING

The Labor and Liberal parties of Great Britain are expected to attempt an interesting exchange of support when Parliament reconvenes after the holiday recess. The Laborites will introduce a bill providing for proportional representation in future general elections as a concession to the Liberals, who will be expected, in return, to lend their support to continuance of the MacDonald government. If the trade is successful and satisfactory to both parties, Great Britain will continue to have three major political parties, the Conservatives constituting the third.

The bill provides that voters in constituencies with more than two candidates may express their preferences—first, second and third choice. In case no candidate receives a majority as first choice, the lowest candidate is dropped, and the next choice votes counted until one candidate receives a clear majority. It is the same system employed in Cleveland, Cincinnati and Hamilton, in this state. It is interesting to know that Ashtabula for the first city in the United States to adopt preferential voting, abolished it by referendum in 1929. The obvious case of it is the fact that it tends to prevent votes for minority candidates from being cast in vain, thereby affording minority parties a better chance for political representation.

In England, for instance, the Liberal party received 23 per cent of the votes cast at the last general election, but returned only 10 per cent of the House of Commons. Labor, on the other hand, with only 37 per cent of the vote, returned 47 per cent of the house. It is a considerable concession for Labor to make to the Liberals, but if Liberal support is assured in return it will be worth it. There is, also, the matter of certain laws passed under the preceding Conservative government concerning trade union funds and sympathetic strikes. Labor wants these laws modified, and plans to modify them with Liberal help. It is a most interesting example of political trading.

What Others Say

THE PERNICIOUS TAX EXEMPT BOND.

In his recent annual report, Secretary Mellon said that states and subdivisions of states continue to issue tax-exempt securities at the rate of $1,000,000,000 a year. The secretary made his statement in connection with a reminder that the treasury department some time ago "earnestly recommended the adoption of a constitutional amendment permitting the federal and state governments, respectively, to tax those securities to be issued in the future, which under present constitutional provisions are not taxable."

During the postwar reconstruction period, the subject of tax-exempt securities and their effect on the general financial and business condition received more attention than it is getting today; but the evil such securities in large quantities work is just as real now as it ever was. These securities make a privileged class of their holders, and are highly discriminatory against the general taxpayer who represents the most productive element in the country, in that they force him to meet the whole burden of a public expense that ought to be borne by all men alike. Owners of billions of dollars of capital escape all contribution to the public treasury by purchasing and holding tax-exempt bonds; and the man who invests his money in business or in real property accessible to the tax collector is, in effect, assessed a penalty or fine for taking risks and working hard to promote the general prosperity of the country.

Tax-exempt securities produce another equally vicious effect by placing a premium on reckless public spending. Because of the special privilege that possession of these securities gives to their owners, they are easily salable at a low rate of interest, and the impulse of the typical state or local government is to resort to them in order to gratify any plausible desires, whims or wishes that officials or the general public may happen to cherish. Some billions of dollars probably have been needlessly spent and, to a considerable extent, wasted in this way. Inevitably public debts have piled up in an appalling way, and, contrary to an general impression, the money borrowed has not even been cheap money.

The state or city which considers the issuance of tax-exempt bonds, carrying a low rate of interest, more economical than the issuance of non-tax-exempt bonds carrying a higher rate, fools itself. By reducing the general tax-paying power through exemptions, by piling taxation burdens on those who as a whole are the least able to bear them, by succumbing to temptation to reckless spending, by causing the withdrawal of immense sums from the amount available for business investment and enterprise, the governmental body issuing tax-exempt bonds invites a penalty far in excess of the apparent advantage. Any way you look at it, the tax-exempt security is an evil as it exists in this country; and there probably would be a good deal of instruction in a knowledge of the extent to which it has contributed to the present condition of depression.—Detroit Free Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 27.—Thoughts while strolling: Who remembers when they held spoons over girls' ears in curling their hair? The 42d street sidewalk salesman who looks like Will Rogers. A touch-and-go to New York's winter. Wonder if Mary Beland talks that way off stage?

Jerome Beatty, a Lawrence, Kan. boy, who made good in the city. That while from the subway—like the faraway howl of a timber wolf. Ladies who wear furs peckily on one shoulder. Wish George Ade would dash off another musical comedy. Marvin Maazel, hailed as another Paderewski.

Cops are suspicious of violin cases—they may hold machine guns. Never hear anyone say "By Golly!" any more. Every time I write a farce, I am reminded of the League of White Predominance. The wise-cracking chorines who lunch at Dinty Moore's.

Broadway and its buzzing seafers. And the cops new cry for "Beat it!"—"Scram!" What became of Roger Wolfe Kahn? The noon day crowd in the little cul de sac known as Shubert Alley. And the fresh-every-hour peeps agents flocking to Sardi's. Street bands seem to have quit.

Harry Hershfield in a big green limousine—the dirty capitalist. And Keely Allen, called "the best loved and least read artist in the box office. But so long as there are theaters, there will be gyp speculators.

Never see a new shaving brush without a yen to buy. Sailing Baruch. The beautiful lady reputed queen of the drug ring—a sick oyster spawning the proverbial pearl. The once magnificent hotel where Anna Held took her milk bath—now third rate. McClelland Barclay, the artist.

Those banjo boys with the lively patter who carry on in night clubs. But so shy in daylight. Zips—and a Broadway night bursts into zig-zag flame. As exciting as one of those breathless one word sentences of Fannie Hurst's. In spite of protests, this is all today.

A Broadway character of 15 years ago was a sleekly handsome fellow with jet black hair, a streak of white running through it cockatoo-like. He was a marvelous dancer, always squaring about a stage beauty of the moment. Then he vanished. In a hand laundry on Madison avenue recently I saw him—a clerk, broken and now entirely white haired. I recalled nights I used to see him around Broadway places. "My trouble," he said laconically and with a shrug.

Speaking of white hair, a rosy checked young girl—a secretarial type—with violet eyes and a figure fashion experts would call superb is often seen in the 42d street neighborhood. Dressed plainly in black, her hair is snow white. And what an eye!

I locked myself in my coop today to be free of disturbances and catch up with work. In about an hour a smart alec dropped in and after pounding vainly on a door shouted: "You will have to get that woman out of there! And the way he said it, you could tell he has been about!

I am told, however, the authority of house detectives in New York hotels has been greatly curtailed. They are not, in the best sense, permitted above the first floor. Their have cost huge sums in damage frequent blunders and lack of tact suits.

Barney Gallant was the last to hold aloft the Bohemian torch in Greenwich Village but my spies tell me that even his night club has "gone untown." The monic has taken place of the poetical horn-rimmed cheater and easily cringing the Grecian robe and sandals.

And Walter O'Keefe, the minnesinger at Barney's, repeats a rumor there is a lot of bad change juice going around.

From a writer's magazine: "It is difficult to describe just what sort of literary niche the columnist fills."

There must be some name for it.

CARE OF THE EYES

During the past decade various preventive medical and hygienic measures have helped us to overcome many unfortunate and unnecessary evils. We are living in the age of progress.

The care of children's teeth has only recently become a matter of general attention. The reporting of children to dentists for the care of their teeth, has aided greatly in the decrease of common ailments of childhood. Not only has this precautionary move helped our future citizens to have stronger teeth but also it has assured us of their having sturdier bodies.

But I am sorry to say there has been neglect in the care of the eyes of children. Why we should neglect a part of the body so important as the eyes is difficult to understand.

It is most important to determine the clearness of vision of the child's eyes at the earliest age. Should there be any defect in vision in one or both of the eyes, it is far simpler to correct this in childhood than at a later stage.

Frequently children with defective vision are backward in their schoolwork. The child at times actually appears stupid and may be extremely difficult to handle. In truth these children are handicapped because of poor vision. If the defect is corrected the child will be able to carry on his work with his classmates.

Eyestrain is a common occurrence in children. To prevent it they should be kept outdoors as much as possible. The teeth and nasal passages should be kept in good condition. Where any physical defects are present they should be kept in good condition. Where any physical defects are present they should be remedied by prompt medical attention.

Chairs, desks and writing tables should be of the right size so that good posture may be maintained. Children should not be permitted to read in dull light or to read in bed. Too much light is as bad as too little light, and glaring lights should be avoided. Such eye defects as "farsightedness," "nearsightedness" and "astigmatism" should receive attention at an early age. If necessary children may wear glasses as early as at three years of age. When given attention in early life it is very probable the glasses may be discarded later.

It has been the custom to postpone correction of these conditions until adult life when they have been present ever since childhood. In such cases it often takes many years for marked improvement to take place. If glasses are prescribed

Samuel L. Woolman, East Seventh street, suffered a stroke of paralysis Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Hartman, East street, are the parents of a son born on Christmas.

Miss Alice Taggart and Ruth Taggart, Jr. spent Christmas with relatives here.

Washington—Admiral Dewey is one of the few heroes of history who celebrate their birthdays and Christmas simultaneously. The admiral was 73 years old on Christmas.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a year in which the personal or purely social interests may engage the attention, although there may be some moderate business activities. Social, domestic and affectional matters and friendships are uppermost, and these should not be complicated by a propensity to rash and impetuous acts or speech. A child born on this day may be quick and energetic, ready with swift tongue and rash acts, but at the same time should be friendly, gracious, and enjoy great social popularity.

BRITON SEEKING SPEED MARK IN NEW 'BLUE BIRD'

Captain Campbell To Try Next Month For New Auto Record

(By United Press)
LONDON, Dec. 26.—When Captain Malcolm Campbell blurs down Daytona beach in January he will be driving the most powerful racing car in his hazardous experience.

The new "Blue Bird" is much lower than the car in which he flashed 214 miles an hour over the same sands in 1928.

When he is seated at the wheel the top of Captain Campbell's head is less than 45 inches from the ground. The car has a clearance of only 3 1/2 inches.

1,450 Horsepower Motor
It is powered by a 12-cylinder super-charged Napier motor developing 1,450 horsepower, at 3,600 R. P. M. While in 1928 the engine had only 820 H. P. The bore of the motor is 13.7 and the stroke 13.07.

The engine itself weighs 1,114 pounds and still develops one H. P. for every 4 pounds.

The wheelbase is 12 feet, 6 inches and the length of the car overall is 25 feet, 6 inches.

The car is fitted with a constant mesh type of gearbox, giving three forward speeds and reverse.

Specially Made Tires
The tires are specially made, with a very thin rubber tread and 14-ply canvas. They have been tested up to 300 miles an hour.

The whole car weighs 2 1/2 tons. The body will be of 16 gauge aluminum, with a heavy steel frame.

From the side it will look not unlike a giant arrow. At the back it has a tall directional fin, at the front a pointed radiator with vent in back to allow escape of air.

Wind resistance has been cut to the minimum in this design, Campbell said.

Has But 225 Mark
One of just how fast the machine will go, level can only be told in the final test. Campbell said it already has huge speed record, 225 miles an hour, established in the late afternoon.

Daytona is the best racing beach he has ever found, Captain Campbell said, but its comparatively narrow course makes it hazardous.

If the beach of the Great Salt Lake in Utah should prove to be as good or better, Campbell would rather make the run there.

Twenty billion dollars in gold might help the world considerably. Twenty million earnest thoughts would help it more than any gold. One single accomplishment, based on thought, the production of steam power, paid all the debts that Napoleon saddled on the nations and gave industry such impetus as never had been dreamed of.

The first day of 1930's last week is past. Six days left to get ready for 1931. In any minute of the six days an idea might come with power to change the destiny of men for all time.

An idea is born in a second. Time develops it, and will power makes it real. All progress is in thought and will.

General Hines, veterans' administrator, has prepared figures to interest veterans of the big war.

Some of them will live 55 years longer. Mortality statistics show that the last will go probably in the year 1985. Some of their widows will last until 2058, which will be 128 years from now.

Those last widows, as young women will marry very old pensioned veterans and continue drawing their pensions for many years.

The government has already spent $5,000,000,000 on veterans' relief. By the end of 1940 it will have spent $13,000,000,000. $3,000,000,000 more than it lent Europe in the war.

Fighting is expensive for all concerned, especially for soldiers that sacrifice health and opportunity.

Pope Pius, greeting the cardinals on Christmas day, expresses his belief that fears dominating the world so universally are excessive and that the predicted tempest among the nations may not come, meaning that the nations will not indulge in another war.

He asked the preachers of the faithful for Mexican Catholics, also for those that "die and suffer in Russia and Siberia," and for the missionary martyrs in China.

His holiness complained of Protestant proselytizing in Rome itself, describing it as impudent, an offense to himself and contrary to the Italian law.

SEE AMICABLE SETTLEMENT OF RAIL PROBLEM

Executives Of Eastern Systems Reach Agreement

(By United Press)
WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—Prospects for an amicable settlement of the eastern railroad controversy, with provision for a four-trunk-line setup, were brighter today than at any time within the last six years.

Agreement among leading eastern railroad executives to provide for only four main systems—the New York Central, Baltimore & Ohio, Pennsylvania and Chesapeake & Ohio—as opposed to the interstate commerce commission's proposal for five trunk lines, was reached at a conference this week in New York.

May Retire Gracefully
That the commission could retire gracefully from its five-system plan was the opinion expressed today by railway men here. Its forthcoming decision in the Wheeling & Lake Erie case, expected next month, provides the commission with the vehicle for a neat reversal, without occasioning excess criticism, according to the railroad men.

Under the final consolidation plan, announced by the commission a year ago, the Wheeling, along with the Pittsburgh & West Virginia, was assigned to the fifth (Wabash) seaboard system. It was on the basis of this plan that the tapline contended the commission should approve the Pittsburgh & West Virginia application.

Excuse for Commission
A good excuse for the commission to deny the application, in the opinion of qualified observers, is the fact the Pennsylvania now holds the majority of P. & W. Va. stock. This, it is claimed, would place the fifth system under Pennsylvania domination, nullifying the consolidation plan. The contention is denied by the tapline, however. They assert they can repurchase the stock on demand. The Pennsylvania bought it originally to protect the tapline's interest during the hectic days after the 1929 market crash, according to the brothers.

Commission acquiescence in the eastern executives' proposal would terminate a long fight of the carriers over numerous short lines, as well as put an end to the bitter opposition on the part of the railroads toward the commission's five-trunk-line plan.

Each of the four principal eastern roads is opposed to the fifth system because it would run through some of the richest and most thickly-settled sections of the east and would cut heavily into their revenues, particularly the Pennsylvania.

With the fifth system eliminated, it is believed the commission would provide for a great lakes to tide-water line, embracing at least the Wheeling and Lake Erie and Western Maryland.

GIFTS TO U. S. ARE SUGGESTED BY LAWMAKERS

Money, Prohibition, Jobs Appear In Congress Answers

(Copyright, 1930, by International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—A turbulent year in American history is drawing to a close.

It has been a year of business depression, of widespread unemployment, of political turmoil, of economic anxiety.

As the year approaches the end, what is the best Christmas present that could be given to the American people this Yuletide season?

This question was proposed today by International News service to a representative cross-section of the nation's law-makers.

Their Answers
Their answers, given below, are interesting:

Senator Watson, Republican, Indiana, majority leader of the senate: "Restoration of Republican prosperity would be the best present the American people could get."

Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho: "Give all the poor a sack of flour—it is more than they will get from the $500,000,000 in appropriation just passed by congress."

Representative Dyer, Republican, Missouri: "A decision by the U. S. supreme court, sustaining the decision of Judge Clark, holding the 18th amendment to have been illegally adopted, would be the acceptable Christmas present. It would end this farce of prohibition."

Senator Tydings, Democrat, Maryland: "An end of the business depression—or, at any rate, a diminution of it."

Senator Caraway, Democrat, of Arkansas: "If their faith was justified, I'd restore the confidence of the American people in their government as an instrumentally to advance their material interests and to promote their happiness."

Norris' Suggestion
Senator Norris, Republican, of Nebraska, insurgent leader of the senate: "The American people are to be congratulated on this Christmas day because, little by little, the Nye investigating committee is uncovering the enemies of our country who are attempting to strike a death blow to human liberty, the very cornerstone of our government, and to control our elections by illegal and dishonorable tactics."

Senator Couzens, Republican, Michigan: "A job for every man and woman would be the ideal gift."

Representative Garner of Texas, Democratic leader of the house: "The best gift would be that of sound, constructive leadership—leadership that could comprehend the national situation, and strive earnestly to solve the problems with which the masses of the American people are confronted."

Senator Blease, Democrat, South Carolina: "Give the American people money, more money and a little bit of human liberty."

Senator Sheppard, Democrat, Texas: "I'd give the people a constantly increasing earning power."

Representative Hawley, Republican, Oregon: "The return of business as usual."

Senator Barkley, Democrat, Kentucky: "Restore prosperity and provide everyone with the opportunity to make an honest living."

New Economic Conditions
Representative Cooper, Republican, Wisconsin, 80-year-old "dean" of the house: "Such a change in our economic system as would forever prevent what we now see at recurring intervals when honest, law-abiding, would-be industrious, thoroughly good men and women are turned adrift without regard for their economic condition and when they ask for work to support themselves and their dependents are told there is nothing for them to do and they must beg, steal or starve. That would be the best Christmas gift. The world is a long way from being 'civilized' which complacently tolerates such a cruel spectacle."

Representative Blanton, Democrat, Texas: "If the government would pay the honest debt it owes the soldiers, by paying the adjusted compensation certificates, it would be the best Christmas present. It would do more to relieve depression than anything congress has done or has in mind."

Senator Hayden, Democrat, Arizona: "I hope the American people, this Christmas, will forget their troubles for a day."

PREDICT BRIGHT FUTURE IN ART FOR BOY OF 14

Institution Instructors See Beauty Spring From Nimble Brush

ALLIANCE, Nov. 24.—With pallet and brush he works busily here, transforming drab walls into well-executed pastoral scenes.

An afternoon, passing by into a pleasant winter twilight, sees a heretofore gray expanse of plaster become a meadow, at the far corner of which runs a little stream—bright and shiny in oil paint. An evening witnesses a crutch covered up by a woods—before which ramifies a tastefully done oil fence.

His name is Charles Prestari, and someday, his friends and teachers say, the critics of two continents may praise him. Today he is but fourteen years old. His position in the world is inconspicuous, for he is an inmate of the institution. But his hands and sense of color will lead him far beyond the walls he is making more comfortable to look upon. His teachers are convinced of this.

Young Prestari has received permission from the officials of the institution to go as far as he desires with his art work on the walls. He is an important factor in the remodeling and beautifying of the inside of the institution.

He began his career as an interior decorator under Ralph Ellis, Youngstown, who has devoted many hours to his pupil. He is at present working under F. A. Webb, East Palestine, who has the contract for redecorating the home.

His skill with the brush was first discovered by R. D. George, superintendent of the home, who assumed charge here a year and a half ago. George is proud of the institution and his prodigy. Since he took charge, changes have come about an old laundry has been converted into a gymnasium, where the orphan-inmates play basketball. A new hospital has been constructed, and a 25 piece band organized.

Next to Prestari's paintings, the band is most popular.

When its concerts are over, the children cluster around the young artist—watching his deft hands wield the brush.

And Mrs. Hadley Stewart, Windber, Pa., and William Stewart, Berwind, W. Va., spent Christmas with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Stewart.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Smith, Youngstown, and Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Holloway were guests, Christmas of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Holloway, and family, Canfield road.

The following officers have been elected for 1931 by the Lutheran Sunday school: Superintendent, W. R. Simpson; assistant superintendent, W. W. Messersmith; secretary, Miss Alta Hulch; assistant secretary, Miss Helen Henry; treasurer, Wilmer Varian; pianist, Charles Douglas; assistant, Charles Fisher; librarian, Albert Gleckler; superintendent of junior department, Miss Nell Brundage.

Jerry Snyder was in Hickory, N. C., last week attending the funeral of his half-brother, J. C. DeRhodes, formerly of Columbiana.

The body of Mrs. Margaret Stroud of Warren was brought to Columbiana Tuesday for burial in the local cemetery. She was the mother of Mrs. Frank Daugherty, former local resident.

Otto Lorange, North Elm street, negie Institute of Technology, Pittsburgh, is spending his vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Lorange, North Elm street.

Herman Schwab has been substituting for E. B. McCammon on his milk route, while Mr. McCammon was confined to his home with the gripe.

Officers will be nominated at the Lutheran church Sunday morning following the regular church service.

COUNTY LISTS ONE FATALITY IN NOVEMBER

172 Accidents Are Shown in Report Of Commission

A total of 172 accidents, one of which was fatal, occurred in Columbiana county during the month of November, the Ohio Industrial commission announced in a report today.

The county's mishaps showed a marked decrease over the month of October when 197 accidents occurred. There was one fatality in October with victims losing 7,203 days in working time, the commission's report said. In November 7,495 days were lost through accidents.

Forty-three lost more than seven days time from mishaps in November.

Industrial deaths throughout the state were higher in November than the previous month as a result of the coal mine disaster at Millfield, Athens county, in which 82 lives were lost. There were only 104 deaths in October.

Fatalities Are Fewer

Up to November, state-wide fatalities show a decrease of 213 industrial deaths over the corresponding period of 1929. During the first 11 months this year there have been 1,172 industrial deaths in Ohio while in 1929 there were 1,197, a reduction of 25 fatalities despite the great death toll resulting from the mining disaster.

"LINDY" TELLS OF RAPID PROGRESS

Flying Colonel Talks Of Then And Now In Air History

years ago South America had no air passenger lines to speak of. Today, except for the Cape Horn region—and nobody down there needs the service—South America is encircled by passenger and mail lines. The next development is linking two hemispheres, the Americas and Europe and Africa—by international airlines. That is feasible and will be accomplished. Perhaps not in 1931 but in the not distant future.

No Plans For New Year

Col. Lindbergh has no particular flying plans for the new year. He said he does not expect to attempt this winter an air tour of South America; a flight he has long had in mind. He's eager to get out to the coast and get the new wing for his Lockheed Sirius low wing monoplane, a wing which will include retractable landing gear, adding at least 25 or 30 miles an hour to the speed of his plane.

In the course of this fanning bee of aviation Col. Lindbergh revealed that his Princeton, N. J., farm and its "landing field" have become rather widely and inaccurately known, especially the field. He is getting letters, he said, addressed to "Lindbergh Field, Princeton, N. J." and "Manager, Lindbergh Airport, Princeton."

That's rather a flossy reputation, he thought, for a cow pasture where an airplane can land but which is in no sense of the word an "airport" or an aviation field.

FORMER GARAGE OWNER TO FACE FORGERY COUNT

H. G. Chamberlin Freed On Bond After Arrest In New York

LISBON, Dec. 26.—Howard G. Chamberlin, former garage operator at Shop 55, St. Clair township, arrested near Lockport, N. Y., late last week on an affidavit charging him with forging the name of Peter Naylor to a note for $4,000 on an East Liverpool bank about June 11, 1929, was returned to Columbiana county in custody of Sheriff William J. Barlow and Deputy Sheriff George Hayes late Wednesday night.

He was released under $5,000 bond for a preliminary hearing before Justice of the Peace M. K. Zimmerman next Monday.

The affidavit against Chamberlin was filed by James Naylor of St. Clair township, a son of Peter Naylor, Dec. 17. Sheriff Barlow forwarded a warrant to the sheriff of Niagara County, New York, and the arrest of Chamberlin followed.

Sheriff Barlow then went to Columbus for requisition papers last Monday, returned to Lisbon and then left for Lockport.

Deputy Sheriff Hayes motored to Lockport Wednesday, and he, with Sheriff Barlow and Chamberlain left Lockport Wednesday for Lisbon.

Five Drink Liqueur, Die

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—Five persons were dead today because they drank poison liqueur Christmas day. In their homes, on the streets, in subway stations and on piers they dropped yesterday and were taken to hospitals for treatment that failed. Five more deaths were investigated in the same connection and 45 persons were being doctored for acute alcoholism.

Dr. Charles Norris, medical examiner, said it was the lightest Yuletide toll in three years.

Seven Die In Fire

WHITING, IND., Dec. 26.—Bodies of seven men lay in the morgue here awaiting an inquest today into the Christmas morning fire which trapped the seven victims on the second floor of a rooming house as they were celebrating the Yuletide.

The dead are John Beberk, Tony Kasevich, Joseph Lucie, John Lucie, Victor Milarevich, Mathew Stefich and Nick Slemich. Slemich was resuscitated after being given up for dead, but later succumbed to severe burns.

An eighth member of the party, badly burned, saved himself by leaping from a window. Flames blocked their escape by the stairways.

A liquor party was in progress, police said, and this was blamed for their failure to leap from the windows.

HOMELESS WAIF ESCAPES DEATH

Stranger Gives Pint Of Blood To Save His Life

(By Associated Press)

CHATTANOOGA, TENN., Dec. 26.—A 16-year-old homeless orphan, Edgar Chapman, lived today because of the Christmas gift of a pint of a stranger's blood.

It came in answer to a radio appeal after physicians decided that a blood transfusion alone could save his life from the effects of a difficult operation.

Hundreds answered, men and women, old and young, scores were tested and finally the blood of E. D. Milligan, 20-year-old resident of Chicago, was found satisfactory.

Milligan was here spending the holidays with his parents.

'BAN' BELIEVED SAFE IN FIGHT WITH DISEASE

Former Baseball Czar Finds Time To Talk Of Sport

(By Associated Press)

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 26.—Ban Johnson, former president of the American league, apparently won another victory—this time against old man disease.

After 13 weeks in bed, the former Czar of baseball was considered "out of the woods" in his fight against diabetes which aggravated a foot infection and threatened for a time to result in the loss of one leg.

Entertains Friends

Strong of voice and still vitally interested in baseball, Mr. Johnson was host to several friends yesterday in a hospital here where he is convalescing.

"I owe my life to Phil Ball," said Mr. Johnson, to the group which included Mr. Ball, head of the St. Louis Browns. "He stepped in and took charge of my case and refused to permit amputation of my leg. At one time I myself felt that only a miracle could pull me through. But the miracle happened."

Mr. Johnson then unfolded some of his opinions on present day baseball problems, among them the lively ball and night baseball. He said he had written George Reach, manufacturer of the official baseball, that unless the amount of rubber in present day baseball were reduced, the game, in Johnson's opinion, would be seriously impaired.

Night Game "Curiosity"

"Night baseball has created a curiosity interest for the time, especially among women; but in my opinion it is not an interest that is of an educational or permanent nature," he said. "Night baseball is not natural. It cannot be permanent. It will never take hold of the major leagues and I do not believe it will long continue as a life-saver for the minor leagues."

RESCUE PARTIES FIND 36 BODIES IN QUAKE RUINS

More Than 100 Injured As Tremors Rock Andes
Town

(By United Press)
SALTA, ARGENTINA, Dec. 26.—Thirty-six bodies had been recovered from the ruins of the town of La Poma today as rescue parties worked in rains and cold in the debris of the village practically ruined by an earthquake.

The injured were estimated at over 100. The earthquake dead were buried as soon as the bodies were identified. The normal population of the town, isolated in the foot hills of the Andes, is about 3,000.

Earth Tremors Cease
Minor earth tremors, recurrent after the initial major earthquake, had ceased. Reports received here said that wide cracks opened in the ground and engulfed men, women, and children. Most of the buildings in La Poma were reported destroyed. The earthquake was felt throughout northern Argentina, but no loss of life or serious property damage was reported from other towns.

Inhabitants of the village, badly frightened by their experience, said that when daylight came after the earthquake, columns of smoke were seen rising from the surrounding hill tops, while subterranean rumblings continued throughout Wednesday morning.

The majority of the victims were killed in their beds, caught by falling walls. Seven entire families were reported killed in their bedrooms.

Telegraph Operator Hero

An unidentified telegraph operator employed by the Argentine National telegraph became the hero of a night of panic. He rushed to the telegraph office and tried to establish communication with the outside world, but finally had to leave the building when ceilings began to fall. He carried his telegraph instruments into an open field and improvised communication with one of the relief expeditions were being organized and sent to the stricken town.

GANGSTER'S FOE IN CHICAGO RACE FOR MAYORALTY

Judge John H. Lyle Looms
As Opponent For Thompson

(By Associated Press)
CHICAGO, Dec. 26.—A new candidate for the Republican mayoralty nomination, Judge John H. Lyle, militant foe of gangsters, was in the race today with a platform in which he promised to break up what he termed alliances between "crime and politics."

Will Oppose Thompson
Judge Lyle, who as a jurist on the Municipal court bench has gained widespread publicity by his treatment of gangsters, will oppose Mayor William Hale Thompson, Charles V. Barrett, chairman of the county board of tax review, and many other candidates who may enter the contest before the February primary is held. Thompson and Barrett already are in the race.

Referring to Chicago gangsters and their bands of followers, Judge Lyle said in his statement that it was "ridiculous to assume that all these officers (Cook county) cannot suppress and almost totally annihilate them."

"No candidate for mayor," he added, "can hope for the votes of the good citizens unless he defines in unmistakable terms his position on the issue of divorcing crime from politics, and unless the language of that declaration accords with his record of public service."

Where Crime Lines Converge
"I have hesitated because of the work I am already doing in the effort to purge Chicago of the criminal gangs that infest the city. The mayoralty office is the one spot in Chicago where all the lines that touch crime and racketeering, converge. The mayor is the law enforcement officer, charged with responsibility for protecting lives, property and reputation of the citizens. He is head of the police department and directs the prosecuting branch of the city government. With this in mind, and believing that as mayor I could promptly and completely finish the work that I have been engaged in as a judge, I have decided to become a candidate."

To Clash In Louisville Home

LOUISVILLE, KY., Dec. 26.—Owsley county officers today were investigating the shooting in which Deputy Sheriff John Mosley, Miss Martha Smith and Hint Heard were killed, and Leonard Lawrence, and Andy Smith, brothers of the slain woman, were wounded.

Sheriff G. D. Wilson said his deputy was slain when he entered the Smith home to make an arrest on a robbery charge. The sheriff said a general gun battle then broke out between the deputy's brother, Pierce Mosley, and several occupants of the home, who, he said, evidently set a trap for the officer in an attempt to prevent arrest of their kinsmen.

Have you seen our wonderful gas ranges—and at their present low price? Be sure to see them.

We understand that Abe Silver got nothing but socks. Wonder if he'd trade for a couple of neckties!

This snow calls for skins. Why not get a pair and have lots of fun?

One little boy says: "I know there's a Santa Claus because I saw him. He fixed the Christmas tree and filled my stocking, and then he got in bed with Mamma."

Old 1930 was good to us. Possibly better than we deserved. Anyway, we want to say "Thank you" to all of you who, by your interest and patronage, helped to make it a very satisfactory year for us.

We have a fine selection of ice skates, sleds and plenty of wheeled goods that will always be useful. They are priced right. Come in and order what you can use.

MECHANICSBURG MAN IS EXPERT ON BALLISTICS

Designed Mechanism On Coast Artillery Guns

(By Associated Press) MECHANICSBURG, Dec. 26.—Although to the ballistic world he has, for many years, been the wizard of gunpowder, Brigadier General Odus C. Horney, of the United States Army, is but another of this city's "favorite sons".

General Horney, recently retired, returns to this place of his youth frequently, and each time he once again becomes the young man who left here to achieve fame in the outside world.

He entered West Point in 1887, and graduated four years later.

Perfect New Rifle
During his army career General Horney worked with two other officers in the Springfield arsenal, Springfield, Mass., and the trio designed and perfected the .30 calibre rifle which is now the standard of the army and navy.

But this was only the beginning of the distinguished officer's career. He later designed personally the firing mechanism which is now used on all of the coast artillery guns in the country. This invention was perfected while he was stationed at Watervliet Arsenal, near Albany, N. Y.

His untiring study of gunpowder soon won for him the honor of being one of the country's leading authorities on the chemical, which led to his appointment as chief of ordnance when he was stationed in the nation's capital.

Builds Powder Works
Later he built and placed in operation the army powder works at Picatinny, New Jersey.

During the World War he served in the Ordnance Department and in the office of the Secretary of War. He was eventually placed in charge of the supply department, and then in charge of estimates and requirements of the United States Army. Since the Armistice he has been on duty in the Philippines, China, Japan, the Dutch East Indies, South Africa and South America.

But Mechanicsburg will be glad to claim him as a part time citizen now that his more arduous duties have ended.

SEPARATED 40 YEARS, SISTERS ARE REUNITED

Discover They Had Lived But Twenty-Four Miles Apart

MARION, Dec. 26.—Tongues are wagging in wonderment here as they repeat the tale of two sisters, living but twenty-four miles apart, who for forty years looked at life through their living room windows, each unaware of the other's existence.

The sisters are Mrs. Mary Finley, 56, who lives on a quiet street here, and Mrs. Emma Klahn, 46, whose residence is behind a clump of shade trees in Crestline.

Mrs. Finley has just discovered Mrs. Klahn—and Mrs. Klahn has just discovered Mrs. Finley. Together they have made less general the statement of the globe trotter from Madrid, who met a chance acquaintance from London in Singapore, and exclaimed: "It's a small world!"

World Is Small
Geographically Mrs. Finley is certain, the world which hid from her Mrs. Klahn is exceedingly small, but actually it was several universes large.

More than 40 years ago the sisters played together in the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. John McCormick, in Lucas, Richland County. At that time there were five children. These were Aurelia, Mary, Ann, Dan and Jim.

Aurelia lost her identity. She vanished into the realm of supposition. The home was broken up by misfortune, and Aurelia, a fair haired youngster with a ready smile, was adopted. Her name was changed by the alchemy of the courts. She became known as Emma Schmidt—and she is the present Mrs. Emma Klahn.

Illness was the cause of the separation of the children. Three of them, Ann, Dan and Aurelia were placed in the children's home at Mansfield.

Visitors thronged the home each Sunday. They looked at the inmates. Here was one with a ready smile—there one who seemed apt at sewing. A boy played soldier over in the corner. Another swung on a trapeze in the yard. Such children were adopted by the kindly visitors often.

Such a child was Aurelia. She was adopted by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Schmidt, of Crestline. Mr. and Mrs. Schmidt were thrifty German folk. Emma was a name which went well with Schmidt. They tried the combination and liked it. Aurelia McCormick ceased to exist.

Her foster parents closed the door to the past. The child grew up unaware of her actual identity. This situation existed until she matured.

Aware of Mystery
Other members of the family became reunited. They went out into the world, wondering what had happened to Aurelia—who had amused them with her childish antics.

When her foster parents died, she became aware that her life was a mystery—and that her origin was unsolved. Neighbors told her of her adoption.

Following their clue, she went to her old home in Lucas. Then to Ashland and finally to Marion. Post-office employees did the rest.

"You are my sister," she said, stepping over the threshold of the Finley residence.

"And you are mine," replied Mrs. Finley.

Truth being stranger than fiction, the tale of the two sisters will be told as often here as there are ears to listen.

Passing Of 1930 Marks End Of Great Sporting Year In Salem

School, Sandlot Sport Activities Reach Peak; High Teams Successful

An era marked with few athletic events of outstanding proportions but one which brought before Salem sporting lovers a period of great achievements will pass with the advent of the New Year, 1931. Scholastic and sandlot athletic contests—basketball, football, track—all brought success to Salem representatives. In records of victory and defeat high school teams here were shaded by marks set up by the previous year, 1929, but in general the passing twelve months brought before followers of sport here normally successful campaigns in all lines of competition.

Abnormal success was reached in all municipal league affairs, with baseball and basketball leagues sponsored by the city drawing greater interest from fans than ever before. Hundreds of fans attended football league games at Centennial park field while large crowds assembled at the Memorial building gymnasium as spectators in Class A and B cage activities during the 1929-30 season.

High Season Successful
Coach Floyd W. Stone, at the helm of Salem High athletics for third season, brought his basketball team of last season from the abyss of a disappointing early start to a record of 12 victories and nine defeats. The scholastic reserve quintet, tutored by Stone's assistant, Harold C. McCord, since succeeded by Franklin P. Lewis, ended its campaign with unusual success, winning 12 out of 16 games. The varsity team, playing one of its greatest games, battled the powerful Akron South team to a 21-20 decision at the Akron district tournament to complete their season. Salem's varsity girls team won nine games, lost seven and tied one.

In city Class A league competition Solbert Greenberger's Golden Eagle team finished far ahead of the field in the first half then coasted in the second half, the title being won in the latter round by Perry McArthur's Florist quintet. In the championship playoff the Golden Eagle won two consecutive games before capacity houses.

The Salem Saxons won the Penn-Ohio German league championship for the second time in three seasons and had a great team.

Hardware Win Title
Baseball season was featured only by softball league activities. The Salem Hardware team and Kiwanis club aggregation annexed titular honors during the season while the Hardware trounced the Kiwanians with ease in the series for the city championship in three straight games. The city was represented by no independent or semi-pro combine other than the Dun Eden lake nine, backed by George W. Dunn, Salem chiropractor, and coached by J. Donald "Pete" Scullion. Dunn Eden had a great season as far as victories were concerned but the team proved a financial failure, failing at any time during the summer to draw a paying crowd.

Coach Stone and his aide, Lewis, had great prospects for an unusually successful season in football. Ineligibility of two star linemen and inexperience of other players in the first game resulted in the team's defeat in the campaign's premiere at Canton McKinley. From then on no further defeat was sustained, the team winning eight games and tying two played with Youngstown South and Alliance. The Stonemen tied with Alliance for second place in the Northeastern Ohio Big Ten interscholastic league.

This circuit was far from a success in either the basketball or football seasons but promises to advance in popularity in coming athletic seasons. Interest in the league at Salem fans is still secondary, the county circuit still being the major attraction here.

Scholastic Win Titles
Coach Stone replaced Wilbur J. Springer as head of Red and Black track activities at the start of the

ALABAMA SEEN AS FAVORITE IN BATTLE IN WEST

Betting Odds On Contest Favor Southerners Over Washington State

(By United Press)
PASADENA, CALIF., Dec. 26.—The strange process of making football favorites has placed Alabama in that position for the Tournament of Roses game against Washington State, New Year's day. Betting odds generally favor Alabama, with the Southerners ruling as high as 2 to 1 favorites in many quarters. Strangely, it is hard to find a Washington State backer even in this section where the Cougars are undefeated and untied champions.

Close Battle Foreseen
Every possible comparison—past performances, playing strength, weight and speed—indicate the closest sort of battle between the rival teams. Both teams have won nine games. Alabama has amassed 247 points to its opponents 13. Washington State has scored 227 points to its opponents 32. Each has proved its mettle in rough going—Washington State in beating Southern California, 7-6, and Washington, 3-0, and Alabama in defeating Vanderbilt, 12-7, and Georgia, 13-0.

The fallacy of football favorites is exposed by one expert who favors Alabama because the southern players appear to have stronger legs and bigger necks. The frail underpinnings of Mel Hein, All-American center on many teams, and Jack Parodi, guard, is weighed against Washington State's chances in this prognosticator's system.

"Favored Under Dog"
With psychology on its side, Washington State seems to be the "favored underdog." Memories are short down football alley, but surely there are some who can recall the fact of the last overwhelming victory in this locality: Notre Dame 27, Southern California 0.

"This underdog stuff suits me and my boys fine," remarks Babe Hollingberry, Washington State coach. "The more we hear it the better we like it."

EAST, WEST GRID TEAMS TO MEET

Aerial Attacks Foreseen As Main Offensive For Teams Saturday

(By Associated Press)
SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 26.—With seasoned passers and receivers lining up with both the East and West, fans look forward to brilliant aerial attacks in the annual charity football game here tomorrow.

A half dozen backs with either squad can throw the pikskin. Bruder of Northwestern and Hart of Colgate for the East, and Kitzmiller of Oregon and Bausch of Kansas, are aces in this department.

On the catching end the east has such sure-fingered men as Frank Baker, (Northwestern), Gantenbein, (Wisconsin), Bates, (Western Maryland), Wheeler (Michigan), Brockmeyer, (Minnesota), and Bruder.

Against these are the Western experts—Long, (Texas), McKelip, (Oregon State), Ebbing, and Boyle, (St. Mary's), Mills, (Oklahoma), and Clark, (Stanford).

With these forces to draw from, neither team will be light of high powered aerial material at any stage of the game.

Faces Grand Jury

COLUMBUS, Dec. 26.—Following the fatal shooting of John and William Ervin, negroes, at Hanford, near here, Friday, Marshal Peter Thornton, 47, negro, was held to the grand jury yesterday on charges of manslaughter.

He pleaded not guilty. He said he was called to investigate a disturbance. His assistant, H. M. Frazer, said he—Frazer—shot in self defense when he killed William Ervin. Frazer was exonerated.

Individual Performances Of Two Athletes Feature Sport Activities At Ohio State

Wesley Fesler Captures Football Honors In Year Of 1930

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, Dec. 26.—Two outstanding features marked varsity athletics at Ohio State university this year.

These were the track feats of George Simpson, who drove himself ever the cinderpaths of the Big Ten to world records in the 100 and the 220 yard dashes; and the brilliant all-around performance of Wesley Fesler, All-American end for three consecutive seasons that he played on the wings and in the backfield of Buckeye eleven.

Captured Teams
Fesler and Simpson were captains of their respective teams—football and track.

Simpson climaxed his records with the time of 9.5 for the century at Ohio relays. He also set a national collegiate record of 20.8 seconds for the 220 at Chicago when he took the measure of some of the world's greatest sprinters—Eddie Tolan, Claude Bracey and Frank Wykoff.

Fesler also shown by his consistency as a guard on the Buckeye basketball team—and captured a trophy for his second consecutive year on the baseball team, when he was voted the squad's most valuable player. Finally he served as field general, end, forward passer, punter and ball carrier on the 1930 Buckeye eleven, which finished the season with three straight victories and a tie against whirlwind opposition, after a miserable start.

Win In Minor Sports
In minor sports, a total of 34 out of 46 matches were put on Ohio State's side of the ledger—as well as many new records.

In wrestling, Russell Fairall, Newark, won 16 consecutive matches, took third in the Big Ten and won the state heavyweight championship. His teammates, Floyd Helgeson, Marshalltown, Iowa, and Stacey Hall, Wheelersburg, took the state lightweight and middleweight championships respectively.

Helgeson also went undefeated in dual competition and took second at the national intercollegiate matches.

The polo team trimmed some of the best eastern and western undergraduate organizations—and won 10 out of 14 games.

All in all, Buckeye sports squads won 73 engagements while losing 54, or 15 sports, all but cross country, soccer, reserve football, golf and basketball finished on the right end of the ledger.

Flashes of Life

(By Associated Press)
CHICAGO, Dec. 26.—The unwritten law of the stage, "the play must go on," failed to work here last night for the first time within the memory of the oldest dramatic critics in Chicago.

Leslie Howard, an actor, appeared before the curtain in a dressing gown and announced that the play could not continue because of his own illness. Laryngitis stopped the show.

He was enthusiastically applauded.
CHICAGO, Dec. 26.—Danger, a pig bulldog whose owner established a trust fund for him at a local bank, was on his way to Hot Springs, Ark., for a winter vacation today, on the profits of some of the securities placed with the banking institution in his behalf. He went alone, in a crate.

His owner, a Chicago business man who couldn't arrange his own affairs for a winter vacation, stayed at home.

NEW YORK—"Prepare now for prosperity" is the slogan announced for National Thrift week, January 17-23, by Adolph Lewishin, chairman of the national thrift committee of the Y. M. C. A.

CHICAGO — Golfers whom John D. Rockefeller encountered Christmas have dimes; policemen found by his daughters, Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick, on Lake Shore Drive, have $5 gold pieces.

WEST ORANGE, N. J.—After intensive holiday study Thomas A. Edison perhaps has some ideas for new inventions. He had a dinner of crackers and milk, played with the grandchildren a bit, then devoted himself to lengthy perusal of technical publications.

WASHINGTON—Employees of the White House have ash trays and jewel cases made of wood taken from the White House when it was remodeled two years ago. Accompanying each gift was a bit of free verse by Mrs. Hoover, telling how a pine tree on the hills of Maryland became a portion of the storied structure and how the gifts via waste basket and fire, eventually will go, free smoke before wind, to touch again the hills of Maryland.

NEW YORK—Janet and Blanche Hutchinson, five and eight years old respectively, have a lion cub to play with. It came by airplane for Christmas, their father, George Hutchinson, having obtained it at the Detroit zoo. It is two months old.

Opera Remains and Knows No Barriers or Frontiers

Despite Timeworn Theme That Opera Is Dying,
Each Successive Season Brings Forth Large
Audiences to Enjoy the Melodic Gems.

MME. GADSKI — Above MME. GALLI-CURCI

By ALICE ALDEN
NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—If opera is dying, its swan song is certainly a tuneful one. For many years now there have been rumors, outright statements, interviews and articles all embodying the same theme. It is, that opera is dying and that its death is due at any moment. And yet, season after season, opera is played in various cities in the new world as well as the old, and large audiences including rows of "standees" throng the opera houses to hear their favorite works, and favorite artists.

In New York the opera season is in full swing. Novelties and revivals have been the order of the day and the operating public likes these but is true to the old favorites containing the melodic gems that have become familiar to and beloved by millions whose only link with the theatre is through the talks. Whenever "Faust," "Carmen," "Butterfly" or the lovely "La Boheme" is announced, a sell-out performance is generally assured. And as an opera audience without playing to crowded houses. People want opera perfectly presented with fine artists, chorus and orchestra.

Jeriza is one artist who believes implicitly in the continued popularity of opera. And why wouldn't she? During the various cycles of Wagnerian works given each season at the Metropolitan, she sees nothing but packed houses. These cycles are subscription performances and the management generally announces before the cycles start, that the house has been fully subscribed. Jeriza is one of the artists who has given herself entirely to music. Little is heard of temperamental outbreaks, quarrels and argument of the variety that were current when the stately, blonde Viennese first appeared in New York. Instead her temperament has been diverted into artistic endeavors and she has become one of the most popular artists in the company, popular not only with the public, but with her fellow artists. Just now she is principal artist in the revival of the tuneful "Bocaccio," another of the novelties produced this season, for this lovely opera has not been performed for so many years, that instead of a revival it has all the marks of a new work. Lucertia Boni, for so many years leading prima donna at the Met, believes, too, that opera is quite healthy. She finds that her work in New York during the six months season in which she is continually employed and the operatic performances at Ravinia Park take up her entire working year and yield her an enormous income to boot. Galli and Martinelli, among the tenor song-birds, know only that opera is successful. One look at their bank-books and salary checks is enough to convince them.

Of course, people do want some variation from the time-honored tradition. Singers have learnt to act their roles, as well as sing them, to introduce new bits of "business," to keep slim figures and look young. They realize that voice is not enough. And as for those who claim that opera is dead, is it sour grapes or just sour notes?

"RENEGADES"

At the State
She betrayed him, but when he tried to turn the tables, she laughed in scorn—until he kidnapped her and brought her to his Arab camp. This is one of the unusual situations in "Renegades," Warner Baxter's latest vehicle in which the actor is said to give a memorable portrait of a disgraced French officer whose love for a siren brings him to a deserved end.

The notable performance of Baxter in the leading role is a revelation to those whose admiration for this fine actor has heretofore revolved around his impersonations of dashing bandits in the old Southwest. As the luckless French officer who flees to the Legion when his sweetheart proves to be an enemy spy, only to encounter her deadly activities at the moment of his triumph, Baxter's work is flawless. Myrna Loy is as alluring as ever and fascinates while she repels the spectator in her difficult but excellently handled role.

Noah Berry, George Cooper and Gregory Gaye are a contrasting but delightful trio. Baxter's carefree and rollicking comrades in his adventures and misadventures, and C. Henry Gordon, a newcomer to the talkies, is thoroughly convincing as the Legion officer. Bela Lugosi and Colin Chase also give praiseworthy portrayals, and the direction throughout, by Victor Fleming.

"THE LAST OF THE DUANES"

At the Grand
In "Last of the Duanes," all talking romance of the great Southwest, which opened its engagement at the Grand last night, Geo. O'Brien enacts the featured role of Buck Duane, handsome and daring young outlaw.

Being an outlaw means eternal vigilance, no home, no rest, no content; always on the dodge, alone and haunted by the thought that he is a marked man.

And such was the existence of young Buck after he killed his father's cowardly assassin, but the sweetness of life comes to him finally in the love of a beautiful girl.

This thrilling Western drama is based on Zane Grey's widely read story of the same name and was adapted for the screen by Ernest Pascal. The leading feminine roles are played by Lucile Browne and Myrna Loy, with Walter McGrail also portraying one of the featured characters. Supporting the featured characters are James Bradbury, Jr., Frank Campeau, Lloyd Ingraham, Nat Pendleton and others.

Sad Is Plight of Divorce-Mill Orphans

Careless and Chronic Tendency of Parents to Break Up Home Through the Divorce Court Brings Clouds to Otherwise Smiling Childhood Days.

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—Through the jubilant laughter of parents who have obtained their freedom via the divorce court there sounds the undertone of the sobs of the pitiful bewildered little orphans of the divorce mill.

This is the age in which child raising, child care and education have reached undreamed of summits of perfection. But this is, too, the age of easy divorce and wrecked homes strewn with the wreckage of young lives, home for the child despite the differences of the parents. Everybody thought that Dick Barthelmess and his wife, the dainty dancer, Mary Hay, were divinely happy. They both seemed enraptured with tiny little Mary, their daughter, and even when a rift was rumored, friends thought that the baby would prove too strong a link to break. They were divorced when the baby was only three years old, but still old enough to love both its father and mother, all over the country.

The court awarded the child to each parent for six months at a time. But Dick has married again and so has Mary. Dick and his new wife are so devoted to the child. The last visit paid by baby Mary had gone beyond the stipulated term and Mary Hay, who is now married to Vivian Bath and has a two-year-old boy by this marriage, has had to serve her former husband with a writ of habeas corpus in order to have the child for Christmas. Little Mary loves California and is a tremendous pet of friends were heart broken to see her go East.

It would be enlightening to those parents who think of themselves before their offspring if they could sit down and have a talk with the three little Bedford-Jones children, Helen, Henry and Nancy. Their mother and their father, who is Henry Bedford-Jones, the well-known fiction writer, parted on Christmas day in 1928. Since then the Bedford-Jones youngsters have led a hectic life. They were awarded to the mother and Bedford-Jones agreed to pay his ex-wife $77,000 at the rate of $300 monthly together with $200 extra each month for the support of the children. But when he arrived to take his children for a western trip, he found them far from well dressed. He says that he had to outfit them for the trip and that they were of the idea that their father had murderous designs on them. They had a marvelous time in California and did not want to return home. But the father adhered to the terms of the court award and sent them home to their mother.

Henry Bedford-Jones was married recently to Mrs. Mary Bernard, a wealthy widow. But his new-found happiness was disturbed by the news that his daughter, Nancy, has been sent to the Guardian Home because of hysterical outbursts. The child was also suffering from curvature of the spine. The boy, he found, was locked out evenings as a sort of punishment and the other girl was being spanked by strangers. Then the indignant father started suit to recover the children. While the case was pending, the children clung to their mother by running away to the hotel where they believed their father was living. In court the girls said that they didn't care for their mother any more but the boy thought that he still cared.

Last month, young Henry Bedford-Jones, after having been critically ill, was recuperating at a resort in Indiana, when his father swooped down and carried the boy off to the coast in a high-powered car. And so now the court battles are on again with the little Bedford-Jones as the bone of contention. And so it goes with the countless little children of divorce all over the country.

RESINOL DID WONDERS FOR Red Cracked Skin

"After suffering some time from a bad cold my nose became unusually red and sore. I tried various creams and salves without obtaining a bit of relief. I didn't have much confidence that Resinol Ointment would be any better but tried it anyway and all I can say is it worked wonders. My hands also were so chapped they cracked and almost bled. They were in such bad condition I could not hold anything. However, thanks to your Resinol Ointment they are now healed." (Signed) Mrs. Jane Gilmore, Philadelphia, Pa.
